

Planning for September...

September?! Who wants to think about September yet?

Though no one wants to see the summer fly by, you'll want to be sure to save the date of September 30th

On Saturday, September 30th, UUCSR will host a day-long Leadership Development program that is sure to inspire your faith in Unitarian Universalism and give you new tools for doing the work of congregational life.

Whether you are already an active lay leader or if you are still finding your way in congregational life, this program is for you. The keynote address:

“The Resilient Congregation: Constructing Bold Practices for a New Day”

offered by the Rev. Larry Peers will be followed by an afternoon of informative, inspiring workshops led by fellow lay leaders and clergy.

Lawrence Peers has been a leader, minister, and consultant for more than 17 years. After serving congregations, Larry was director of Congregational Growth and Research for the Unitarian Universalist Association for ten years. Since, 2001, he has worked as a consultant and seminar leader with The Alban Institute, a national, interfaith organization focusing on congregational vitality.
